BORDEAUX: A “COMMITTED DESTINATION”

As you prepare to turn this page and peruse our propositions for exploring Bordeaux and its surroundings, we feel that it is important for us to briefly present the values that have played a defining role in putting together our tour options.

You are visiting a “committed destination”: committed to limiting the impacts of tourism, particularly with regard to the environment. Our commitments also extend to ensuring harmony between ephemeral visitors and permanent residents. We are conscious that tourists and locals share this area that you are about to discover.

Local produce, green forms of transport, reduction in energy consumption and inclusivity... Some of the actions taken on these fronts may not be visible to the naked eye, but we follow indicators aligned with the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals, and we regularly submit to external audits as part of our ISO 20121 certification and Qualité Tourisme status in order to follow our progress. Thanks to these collective efforts, we ranked 9th place in the 2023 Global Destination Sustainability Index*.

We hope that you have a memorable experience during your stay with us. We always take your views into account to help us continue to improve on our path to becoming a responsible destination that is a good place to live and to visit. Enjoy your stay!

To learn more about the concrete actions that we have taken, scan this QR Code.

BORDEAUX WALKING TOUR

To visit the historic centre of Bordeaux on foot, while making sure not to miss any of its treasures, the best solution is a guided tour with a professional. Led by your guide, you will see all of the diversity of this city, designed with the compass of architects and urban planners of the 18th century, resulting in an astonishing harmony! All along your route, you'll admire the splendour of Bordeaux's monuments, its rich past and architectural gems. The city has several sides to it, blending history and modernity. From the Monument aux Girondins on Esplanade des Quinconces to the Grand Théâtre, built in the 18th century, when you raise your eyes you'll see the statues of muses and goddesses that watch over Place de la Comédie. As you progress, your guide will invite you to look at some architectural details: the mascarons (stone faces) that decorate doorways, wrought iron balconies, carved inscriptions from the city's past... Your discovery continues into Bordeaux's old town until Place de la Bourse, the unmissable Miroir d'Eau (water mirror) and quayside, which offer a unique panorama over the Garonne!

RIVER CRUISE

If you're looking for a unique experience in Bordeaux, why not think about taking a cruise on the River Garonne? Bordeaux's river cruise companies offer a wide range of cruises in 'The Port of the Moon', where 18th-century facades run all along the quays. During the trip, your guide recounts the history of the city and its monuments. Admire the symbolic sites, such as Place de la Bourse and its water mirror, or La Cité du Vin, and marvel at the city's architectural diversity, where modern buildings blend harmoniously with historical structures, creating a one-of-a-kind urban landscape.

PEY BERLAND TOWER

As the cathedral's 12th-century bell tower was not strong enough to hold bells, another one was needed, detached from the cathedral: a feat achieved in 1440. It was not until 1863 that the monumental statue of 'Our Lady of Aquitaine' was placed at the summit. At the end of a 231-step climb, from 50 metres high, the view over the city is incontestably one of the most beautiful! The tour is open to visitors every day.

Open every day. From October to May: 10am-12.30pm / 2pm-5.30pm

From June to October: 10am-6pm.

PORTE CAILHAU

Built in the 15th century, this gateway was the main entry to the city from the river. Though a defensive structure, Porte Cailhau was also a royal gateway, paying homage to King Charles VIII. Its name is said to have come from that of an old bourgeois family who lived in the close by, or even “cailloux”, in reference to the ballast used on the ships after they unloaded their goods. The tower offers a 23-meter panoramic view over the river. Don't miss the visit of this former defensive gate.

The Porte Cailhau is closed for works. Reopening on 11 July 2024.

SET OFF FOR THE VINEYARDS 🇫🇷🇬🇧🇪🇺

The world capital of wine's 18th-century splendour gives it a certain glamour. The largest and oldest fine wineproducing region in the world is home to 65 appellations and extends over 110,000 hectares, with more than 5000 producers. Bordeaux is an excellent starting point for exploring the vineyards, châteaux, wine-growing villages and surrounding countryside. Throughout the year, choose from numerous excursions that set out from Bordeaux and head out to the wineries in the main Bordeaux appellations, either for a full day or a half day. Transportation is made in a 8 seats minivan.

Among these excursions, the Bordeaux Tourist Office offers 'Saint-Emilion, a world heritage site - Full day with lunch', an escape in the heart of the Saint-Emilion vineyards. The programme includes a visit of two châteaux (including a Grand Cru Classé), wine tastings, lunch at the château and a guided tour of the Saint-Emilion medieval village and its underground monuments. An unforgettable experience! 🍷
